Abstract:

Professional growth in education often involves continuous learning, reflection, and the development of new roles and responsibilities. In this session, the speaker will share her experience of moving from classroom teaching to educational leadership, exploring how educators develop their professional identity through practice, learning, and reflection. This talk aims to provide aspiring and experienced educators with practical perspectives on professional development, career pathways, and ongoing growth in a changing educational landscape.

Guest Speaker:

Ms. Emily Yingxue Huang is currently the Vice Principal of Secondary School at Beijing International Bilingual Academy, where she oversees teaching and learning, MYP curriculum development, language support programs, and faculty professional development. She holds a Master's degree from the Faculty of Education at The University of Hong Kong and a Certificate in Advanced Educational Leadership from the Harvard Graduate School of Education. Ms. Huang is an active IB educator, serving as an MYP Workshop Leader, Programme Leader, School Visit Team Member, and Reader. With over a decade of experience in international and bilingual schools across Hong Kong and Beijing, she brings extensive expertise in MYP framework implementation, curriculum design, and strategic school development. Her professional interests center on concept-driven learning, inquiry-based pedagogy, assessment practices, and teacher growth. She remains dedicated to advancing educational standards through continuous curriculum innovation and lifelong professional learning.
